MOTHERS DAY

Remembered By Willie P. Rogers While In France.

In order that his letter might reach his mother by "Mothers Day" the following from the pen of Willie P. Rogers will be eagerly read by his friends at home:

"Alteney France, April 20th, 1919, Dear Mother:—

Will write you a few lines this beautiful Easter day. This leaves me enjoying good health, hope it finds you and all in the best of health. I wonder how you all have spent this day and if it has been as beautiful there as it has over here.

We had a splendid version this A. M., and then commemorated the Lord's Supper and it took my thoughts back to the times that I had sat in the old home church and enjoyed it so much. I think of the first Easter morning and the joy it brought to the followers of Christ, when he came forth conquering Death and the Grave, and it means so much to us today, because we have an ever living Savior to go to when things are dark, and He can make life's pathway so bright.

I think we should be more devoted to His cause and do more in His service.

Mother, I am writing you this so it may reach you on Mother's Day. It is useless for me to try to tell you how much I have missed you while I have been away, and I will never forget the last kiss you planted on my cheek, and the words you spoke to me of the confidence you had that I would be true and I have tried to live up to that standard.

Mother, as I picture you there today in that little home, I know you miss me and long for the time to come when I shall be with you again. I, too, long for the day when I shall hear your dear voice again, and I feel that He whom I have brought me safely this far, will bring me safely back to you again. It has been only one short year since I left you, but there has been some wonderful changes taken place, so much has been accomplished that we should be proud of our country, that has been saved for Truth and Righteousness, so don't worry over me, just look forward to that glad day when I shall be with you again.

I am liking school work fine. I went out for a walk this P. M. and whom do you think I met. I met Mr. Ledford's son who lives on Broadus Branch and he was so glad to see us. Said Hubert Ellis and myself were the first boys he had seen that he knew since he came over here.

Tell Father the next time he sees Mr. Ledford to tell him I saw Jim, and that he was looking well.

Well mother, don't forget to give my love to father and all. May God keep you all until we meet again.

Your loving son,
Pvt. Willie P. Rogers.

Tick Eradication

In Georgia.

In Georgia, on the first of January, 1920, the statewide "Dipping Law" goes into effect. Its purpose is the eradication of the cattle tick.

There is something wholesome and comforting about the general trend of legislation in America, whether state or federal. Its motive is mainly creative rather than subversive. It aims to preserve wealth—everybody's wealth—yours and mine, rather than to destroy it.

True, the "dipping law" is, in a sense, destructive. It is destructive of vermin. It is radical. It plans the radical extermination of a pest. It is abolitionist. It proposes the abolition of a disease.

In rural communities like Lancaster we find the bone and sinew of the body politic. It is in communities like this that state legislation of a constructive order originates. It is at once our privilege and duty to preserve and hand down to posterity the sturdy Americanism of today.

In the New York foreign colonies and ghettos, in the seditious shops of Chicago, there is enough legislative propaganda to fill a statute book with revolutionary laws, if its program ever found its consummation. But how many of them would deal with the compulsory suppression of disease, whether among cattle or among men? And few cattle need "dipping" and sanitary baths as much as these malodorous exiles.

"BILLY" MILLER

Writes Friends From Germany.

Everyone will be glad to learn that "Billy" Miller who is now with the Army of Occupation in Germany, is well and apparently as happy as one could be under the circumstances. That he is as popular there with his soldier friends as he is among his friends in "Old Kentucky" is shown by the following clipping which is from the "Stray Shots" a paper published by the Fifty-First Infantry to which he is attached.

"M. G. COMPANY"

The men of the Prize Section of the M. G. Co., meaning, of course, the Blue Ribbon Winners of the Division, Corps and 1st Army Horse Shows—were given a banquet last Thursday evening in the company mess hall. Captain Stamey was the host, and Lieutenants Parker, Brittain, and Genter assisted in the hospitalities. When the twenty-five men assembled in the hall they were assigned seats at a star-shaped table and at each place was a china plate, together with knives, forks and spoons. The hall was tastefully decorated and illuminated by candle light. An appetizing menu of five courses was interspersed with many toasts by officers and men. 1st Sgt. Walter J. Jedel gave an amusing little toast on "Should It Have Been, Wasn't It?" Sgt. Hoke and Corporal Thrasher contributed their bits in the toast line. During the evening the M. G. Quartette sang in true carol style. Giving banquets in Adrian Barracks is no small task and much credit is due Sgt. Wm. F. "Billy" Miller, who with his usual energy and initiative, got up a dinner that was excellent and saw to it that the comfort and pleasure of the guests were catered to.

Over $500. Per Acre.

The D. A. Thomas Realty Agency has just negotiated a sale of one of the choicest tracts about Lancaster, it being 24.14 acres of the Owsley tract fronting Danville pike about 3-4 mile from city limits. Jas. W. Smith, local merchant, is the purchaser at $13,070.00 and we wager that he has a bargain for such tracts of the quality, locality and similar improvements are scarce at all price.

Hard On Stanford.

Some colored youths were recently tried in the police court for vagrancy. One of them had hailed from Stanford, and was ordered to work or to return to his home town. He elected to return home and our town marshal walked him out Stanford street. Presently the black boy slackened his pace, and dragging his feet, he said, "Boss, please take me to jail. I'd rather be in jail in Lancaster than live in Stanford."

Farmers Go Visiting.

Last month the farmers near Fulton, Ky., took a big "Better Farming Auto Trip" which was a huge success. One hundred and fifty fivers, "Lizzies", cars and machines pulled out of Fulton at 9:30 A. M., April 23rd, for an all day sight-seeing trip. Stops were made at many points where unusual cattle barns, fine herds of Herefords, rich alfalfa fields or other things of interest to farmers might be found.

A big fish-fry dinner was served at noon. The Fulton Daily Leader in treating the event editorially said: "Let's make it an annual event. We enjoyed it. The dinner was the best ever served under the new-budded leaves and the canopy of Heaven."

Ed Gaines Honored.

No agent in Central could have honored more worthily bestowed, than the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company have bestowed upon our local agent and friend, Mr. E. C. Guines.

He is one of the best advertised agents in Central Kentucky and never tires telling his friends of the good points offered by this splendid company. In honor and in appreciation of his services and the excellent work he did for the company during the month of March and April, the company is giving him a trip, together with Mrs. Gaines, with all expenses paid by the company. They will leave next Saturday for the East, taking in Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Washington, New York City and other points of interest. They will have the best wishes of their friends for a delightful trip.

Our philosopher says: Now the boy's come back from overseas, don't forget all the things you planned to do for him if he ever got back home safe an' sound.

ANNOUNCES FOR CONGRESS.

Judge Charles A. Hardin.

To The Voters of the Eighth Congressional District:—

After a careful survey of the situation in the Eighth Congressional District, I am persuaded that the collective sentiment of the Democratic voters in the majority of the counties composing the District is favorable to my candidacy for Representative. Otherwise, I should not feel justified in unannouncing myself as a candidate for the position carrying with it such signal honor for myself, and such great responsibility to my constituents, and especially, at a time in the history of the world, when statesmanship, to be personally credible and worthy of the hour, must ignore small things and things of partisan prejudice, and give itself wholly and unselfishly to great constructive plans of national advancement and development. Stimulated—flattered it may be—by the belief that so large a number of the Democratic voters of this splendid district consider me worthy to represent them in Congress during a possible and very probable, epoch-making period in the world's history, and with an enthusiastic appreciation of the personality, and the exalted statesmanship of our great President, whose policies I trust, shall constitute my working program, if elected, I hereby announce myself a candidate in this District for the office, Representative in Congress, subject to the action of the Democratic party. It is my wish that selection of the nominee for the position be made by a primary election, held at a time when every party voter in the district shall have opportunity to register his free and voluntary choice.

After the most demoralizing war the world has ever known, we are upon a period of re-adjustment, and it will be my highest ambition, in or out of Congress, to support unflinchingly the man, who more than any of all the great men among our Allies, has held high the torch of liberty for a struggling world.

Respectfully,

CHAS. A. HARDIN.

CAR LOAD

Of Fat Cattle Sold By Z. T. Rice.

V. A. Lear and Company purchased this week of Mr. Z. T. Rice one of the best and fattest loads of cattle we have seen shipped from our city for several years. There were twenty-eight head in the bunch and they averaged 1216 pounds, for which he received $14.20 a hundred.

GOVERNMENT INSPECTOR

Locates Permanently In Lancaster.

Mr. William Y. Brady who has spent most of the past year in Lancaster as inspector for the new Government Post Office, will make Lancaster his permanent headquarters. Mr. Brady has made many friends since coming into our midst, all of whom will be glad to know that he and his family will reside with us as long as he holds his present position. Mr. Brady is the chief Government inspector for all government buildings being erected in Kentucky. He left this week for Henderson, Ky., to look over the building now in process of erection at this place.

Stoves and Ranges.

Ranges and Refrigerators, that we are making special prices on.

We have a splendid stock of stoves. We guarantee to save you money. 15-2t. W. J. Romann.

Our philosopher says: An extra file an' one or two whetstones'll be mighty handy to have aroun' when tools get dull.

FIFTH DISTRICT INSTITUTE

Close Here After Three Days Session.

The Fifth District Institute of the Christian Churches which convened here last Monday evening closed yesterday afternoon after one of the most successful meetings held in many years.

This district is composed of fourteen counties, most all of them having representatives. The counties in the district are: Madison, Garrard, Lincoln, Rorkenstle, Jackson, Pulaski, Laurel, Clay, Harlan, Bell, Knox, Whitley, McCreary and Wayne.

In all about fifty delegates attended and were entertained in the various homes of our local people.

Rev. D. W. Scott, of Somerset, presided at all the sessions while Mrs. R. E. McRoberts served as secretary. Miss Sullie Elkin being the secretary of the C. W. B. M. branch of the Institute.

The program was an interesting one throughout and many prominent speakers from a distance were in attendance. Good crowds attended every session, and all seemed imbued with a serious purpose, such as the present hour would demand. The Institute just closed should mark the beginning of a new vision and the release of new powers for the cause of Christ in Kentucky.

The Central Record as a disseminator for advertising is attested to by a recent patron in this way, "I put a notice in the 'Want Column' of the Record, and Heavens! the next day it was a perfect telephone barrage. It seemed everybody in the county had the thing to sell."

VICTORY LIBERTY LOAN

Garrard's Quota Easily Raised With Some To Spare.

Garrard County's quota for the Victory Liberty Loan has been exceeded and $200,000 subscribed. Our quota was $198,050.

Much credit is due the chairman, Rev. J. R. Moorman and his excellent helpers, none of whom let up for a moment until the goal was reached.

The organization wishes to thank all who have helped to make this, the last loan to the government, a success. The list is a long one and we haven't the room to name them at this time.

PRIMARY ELECTION

Called For June 21, '19.

The Democratic Executive Committee for the Eighth Congressional District met in Danville, yesterday and called a Primary to select the Democratic nominee to lead the party in the special election called by Governor Stanley to fill out the unexpired term caused by the death of the late Harvey Helm, for the Eighth Congressional District.

June 21st was fixed as the date for the primary and all aspirants for this nomination according to the rules laid down at this meeting must give written notice to Dr. T. R. Welch not later than noon May 21st, and deposit $1,000 to pay his proportional part toward the expense of the primary.

A Sub-Committee was appointed composed of Dr. Welch, B. A. Long of Shelbyville and J. E. Robinson, editor of the Central Record, to arrange all plans for holding the primary according to the published rules found elsewhere in this issue.

At this time Judge Charles A. Hardin is the only announced candidate for the nomination and those who have a survey of the political situation in this district predict there will be no other candidates and that Judge Hardin has the nomination in his hands.

Bank Improvements.

The Citizens National Bank is having some marked improvements installed on the interior of its building, one of which is the latest in office furniture. The floor is being laid in beautiful tile blocks. While the repairs are being made the business is being conducted in the rear room, which fronts on Danville street just above the Post Office door.

Interest Is Great.

The recent news item concerning the Farmers' Community Meetings which are to be held in a number of counties in Kentucky, has caused great interest in these unusual affairs. Numerous requests are being made for these meetings and it would now seem as if the desired number would be secured without any great effort on the part of the management of the State Development Committee which has its headquarters at the Board of Trade Building in Louisville.

Magnificent Home Sold

Mr. W. R. Cook, of Lancaster, has bought from Mrs. Clifton Rodes Anderson, the handsome residence located on Lexington avenue. The time possession is to be given has not yet been decided.

The Anderson home is one of the most desirable in this city. It has every modern convenience. Mr. and Mrs. Cook are almost as well known in Danville as in their home town. They will receive a cordial welcome to this city. Mrs. Cook, prior to her marriage was Miss Ellen Owsley, daughter of the lamented Judge Mike Owsley.—Danville Daily Messenger.

Washington Put Up Ice.

In this day and generation a great many farmers have quit putting up ice because manufactured ice is so cheap. It seems strange that George Washington was among the few people at that time who stored ice in ice houses. In January 1875 he filled a dry-well under a summer house and another on in his new wine cellar.

Under date of June 5th he wrote in his diary: "Opened the well in my cellar in which I had laid up a store of ice, but there was not the smallest particle remaining. I then opened the other Repository (call the Dry Well) in which I found a large store."

GOV. STANLEY

Will Resign As Governor.

To Take Seat in Senate On May 19th, and Lieut. Governor Black Then Becomes Governor.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Gov. A. O. Stanley will resign and take the oath of office as United States Senator May 19th, when the extraordinary session of Congress convenes, and Lieut. Gov. James D. Black, of Barbourville, will succeed him as Chief Executive and serve until the fifth Tuesday after the November election, when he or his successor will commence the new term, according to an official announcement made by the Governor here last week.

Governor Stanley said he will act in the case of Julius Babey, of Louisville, wife murderer, and call a special election in the Eighth Congressional District before he retires.

Kentucky Wins.

The Kentucky Experiment Station won 3 ribbons at the 11th Annual Egg Show at Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana. This show is the largest egg contest in the country and competition is always keen. Six hundred dozen eggs were entered in the five classes. Kentucky won first on brown eggs and second and fourth on white eggs.

Convention

Harmonious.

The Republican County Convention held last Saturday to select delegates to the State Convention brought out a good crowd and the meeting was harmonious throughout.

The meeting was called to order by the County Chairman, Dr. B. B. Montgomery and the object of the meeting announced.

On motion Mr. Henry Moors was made permanent chairman and Joe Burnside secretary of the meeting.

The meeting endorsed the candidacy of Edwin P. Morrow for Governor and endorsed Mr. Mack Morgan of this county for Representative. Sixteen delegates were named to attend the convention which met at Lexington, yesterday.

Col. Denhardt's Opening a Disappointment

Col. H. H. Denhardt, of Bowling Green, opened his campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor at Mt. Sterling, May 3rd, in a speech that was more demagogic than was these-called demagogues he inveighed against and one which we are sure he will regret before the canvass is over. He evidently selected the county of Montgomery for his initial speech because of the great opposition there to the new tax law, for the repeal of which he strongly asserted his advocacy. That the law is not entirely all it should be, even its most ardent advocates agree, but that it is in the main the best that the state has ever had can not be denied by truthful people. It should be amended where experience has shown it needs it and not be repealed almost before it has been given time to prove its advantages.

Some of the planks of Col. Denhardt's platform are admirable and a credit to him, but he will make nothing and get nowhere by his criticisms of Governor Stanley and of other Democrats, who are doing the best they can and living up to their oath of office with conscientious regard. The Colonel is not the only blown in the bottle, thick and thin, honest man in the country and he should not go the principles that governs the Pharisee. We confess to a feeling of much disappointment at his speech and feel that its spirit will make the colonel no friends outside of a coterie that loves to hear public officials abused and who like him can criticize much better than they can construct. Times have indeed come to pass when a Democrat believes that he can ride into office by criticizing other Democrats, who to say the least, are as honest as he.

Col. Denhardt also takes a fall out of Hon. E. P. Morrow, as he has a perfect right to do, but it is more than likely that the young giant of Pulaski will make him regret his rashness before many moons wax and wane. We give Col. Denhardt credit for having gone to France to help make the world safe for democracy, but we can not endorse his methods for making Kentucky safe for Democrats by his tirade on leading men of the party. His patriotism and his sacrifice will have been lost for political personal gain if he keeps up the racket he has started.—Interior Journal.

Best of Stimulants.

There is only one stimulant that never fails, and yet never intoxicates—duty. Duty puts a blue sky over every man—up in his heart maybe—into which the skylark, Happiness, always goes singing.—George D. Prentice.

The "Anvil" Bird.

The anvil-bird of Australia is a very rare and exceedingly shy creature. Its clear metallic note rings out, "Kling, kling, kling, kling, kling a ling." It is the hardest of all birds to locate, as it mostly does its blacksmithing in the topmost branches of the dense brushwoods.

News in the "Ads."

A well-written advertisement is always also a news item. It tells what, where and for how much. It is the advertiser who speaks and it is the reader who gets the message. It is good news for both. There is pleasure in knowing that you can put with something to supply another's need, just as it is a pleasure to know where you can get something that is much desired.—Columbus Dispatch.

What is It?

A small girl was visiting her aunt's room for the first time. She walked about and scrutinized everything with interest. Finally she stopped before an attractive picture frame which was standing on the table, but was empty. After a puzzled moment she said: "Auntie Ethel, what is it I don't see?"

First United States Currency.

Immediately after the battle of Bunker Hill $2,000,000 in American currency was issued, and by 1779 the amount had grown to $241,000,000, and the various states had issued nearly as much. In 1792 the mint at Philadelphia was established. Thus the use of American money gradually supplanted the foreign.

Are Judges of Own Membership.

The Constitution gives each house of the national congress the right to expel a member, and makes each house the sole judge in the matter. Any charge would suffice, if two-thirds of the members deemed it cause for expulsion. Neither house has anything to do with expelling a member of the other house.

The Rivals

By ALVAH JORDAN GARTH.

Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.

Two young men met on the crowded city street and shook hands, gingerly rather than enthusiastically. Each scanned the other in a fathomless sort of way, as though seeking to read his thoughts or to determine from general appearance or facial expression how the world had fared with him, for they had not met to speak for two years.

There was a sharp contrast between the two. Alden Dale, plainly but neatly dressed, suggested the student and thinker.

Garland Eyre, flashing eyes, mobile of lips, restless and erratic in his movements, suggested the typical broker, ever on the alert and under a strain. He covertly observed the suitcase, momentarily constructing a theory as to its presence. "Off on a train, I see?" he remarked.

"Why, yes," replied Alden in his straightforward way. "I'm going home for a week or two."

"Wish I could arrange to do that. Believe I'll try," said Eyre, his underlying purpose camouflaged, for Alden detected the thin disguise of general flattery. "I'd like to loaf around the old burg for a spell. How have the fates dealt with you, Dale?"

"Pleasantly," answered Alden. "I was admitted to the bar in August and they honored me with an appointment with the Law Protective league. The compensation is only a livelihood, but it is useful work and fine legal training, and I have written a book or two, and that has helped out."

"Show your something," teased out Eyre, and he took a book from his pocket. "That's me!"

His were all money values, as he showed the chronicle of bank failures amounting to thirty thousand dollars. "Promoted the Casa Grande Realty company, you know," he said.

"Why, I read something lately in the newspaper that the company had failed," observed Alden.

"Yes, we hit a snag and they landed a receiver down on us," admitted Eyre lightly. "But we've reorganized. Money coming both ways, see? The investors have come on with a private assessment, so we are still gathering in the shooks. Got to attend a meeting of the directors," he added, glancing at his watch and flushing his badly-muddled head effectively. "So good-bye. I say, though, a pretty neat surplus for two years, eh?"

Alden went on his way immersed in thought. There was a strong distaste in his mind as he reflected over what Eyre had just told him. The Casa Grande had been denominated a swindle in the public prints. "Milked dry by its exploiters," it was declared. "Two years?" The words comprised a text for some meditation. When the two young men had left their native village both were in love with Myrtle Robbins. By a queer coincidence both had decided to try their fortunes in the city, and in turn they had visited bluff, straightforward Peter Robbins and had initiated their feelings toward Myrtle.

"Well," said Mr. Robbins, "what you are after is to get me to allow Myrtle to keep up a correspondence with you? Plainly—no. You are promising young fellows, and I wish you all kinds of luck, and Myrtle likes you both, but she is too young to think of a loan. In two years, when you have shown your business mettle, come back here."

So Alden and Eyre had to be content with that, and now the two-year period was up and the one thought in the mind of Alden was Myrtle. And Garland Eyre attended no directors' meeting, but, hurrying to his hotel, packed his grip forthwith and reached Virden one train later than Alden.

"In a showdown I feel pretty sure that old Robbins will favor my fat bank roll," he chirped complacently, and, being of the brassy, push-ahead kind, by nightfall of the next day all Virden knew of his demands and gaudy attire and bank roll. When that evening he called at the Robbins home it was in a big hired motorcar, and he spent two hours talking mostly of himself and his glittering prospects for wealth. He fancied he had impressed Myrtle greatly, attributing her subdued manner to awe and admiration.

If he had been present during the visit of Alden the following evening, however, Eyre would not have felt so sure of himself. Father and daughter had heard of his work in the city, particularly of his writings. The modest young author was duly delighted when he found both Myrtle and her father familiar with the same. Before the week was out, in turn the young men called upon Mr. Robbins requesting permission to pay their addresses to Myrtle.

Ah! for the lofty aspiration of the reorganizer of Casa Grande. The morning paper announced the issuance of a fraud order against its promoters and a levy on the stockholders against all their bank funds, including Eyre's thirty thousand dollars. The latter found it judicious to return at once to the city to untangle his involved business affairs.

When Alden Dale called upon Mr. Robbins next day the latter viewed him with an approving eye.

"To help you on your way, Dale," said the old man, paternally. "I'll say that Myrtle has kept your photograph on the wall of her room ever since you went away. If she likes you as well as she did your books your case is won and—I'm agreeable!"

Here's First Victory Note

HERE is the first Victory Loan note. The photograph shows Carter Glass, Secretary of the United States Treasury, removing it from the press in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. These notes must be perfect to a hair line before they are circulated. That is why the head of the Treasury Department is present in person to inspect the first one before the entire number is printed.

To the right of Secretary Glass, just behind the lady in the picture, is James L. Wilmett, director of engraving and printing. The perfection of these Victory Loan notes depends directly on him.

Everyone in the country cannot have this first note—but there are going to be enough so everyone can have as many as he or she will buy.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS.

The successful business man must base his life upon honor and integrity. Beyond and outside of these, he must have the compound of initiative, aggressiveness, determination, practicability and vision which America, in her love for condensation, has chosen to style "pep".

The successful, wide-awake and progressive town must possess the same qualities. It must have the judgment to realize that its prosperity and growth depend on the home advantages and business advantages which it can offer. And it must have vision enough to see that expenditures which secure these advantages are not an extravagance, but an asset.

Money spent in local improvements such as public buildings, schools, good roads, sewers, city water, gas and electric light, is money well spent. Undertaking any of these improvements is like making an excellent investment, which is bound to return dividends. The gain to the town reacts to the comfort and benefit of every citizen.

Who wants to live in a town without "pep", a town which drags out its monotonous existence without growth or improvement? When the question of a local improvement comes up, stand behind it, "boost" it, work for it, vote for it. Install local improvements, and you will see your town sought by business enterprises and manufacturing.

It is up to you, Mr. Citizen. Stand up for local improvements first, last and all the time, and you will help make your home town a desirable place of residence and a progressive business center.

And now they are attempting to prove that the crow is not so black as his feathery coat—that he is in fact a helper toward the cultivation of the fields. We are told that the crow follows the plow or cultivator so that he may feed upon the numerous larvae, such as cutworms, wireworms and white grubs, which the turning of the soil brings to light. If a flock of crows is observed returning again and again to a particular field it is almost certain that the field is infested with noxious white-grubs.

It is also said that crows destroy quantities of mice and young rabbits, and that their activities among sprouting corn and in the poultry yard have been greatly exaggerated.

We have never expected to see the crow upheld as an assistant to the farmer. And we hope that he is preparing to live up to his new and desirable reputation.

FACE THE FACTS.

The Japanese are not so far away from Lancaster as we think. They are not with us in the flesh but they are bringing philosophical truths home to us with the utmost emphasis.

The elegance of their diplomatic language equals that of the most abstract minded of the idealists at the peace table. On brotherly affection, disinterested helpfulness, international co-operation, conciliatory unselfishness—on these and kindred themes they discourse with rather more fluency than most of the delegates. They may intoxicate the more altruistic of the diplomats—but they stay sober themselves.

The war has dealt kindly with Japan. Her great rival, Russia, is now below the horizon, and likely to stay there. And as far as Japanese hegemony of eastern Asia is concerned, there is nobody else in sight.

The province of Shantung, in falling under Japanese control takes with it a population of 40,000,000. We were informed that the league of nations would prevent this annexation. At all events, the exalted phrases in which our own attitude was defined conveyed this idea.

The Finns, Russians, Poles, Austrians and Roumanians are all at war. The Italians and Jugo-Slavs are in battle array against each other. Various nations have internal wars going on right at home. Japan also would be at war, if there was any one able to dispute her claims.

Men and women of Lancaster, this world is a mess. We can call it a world at peace, if we like. We can call an elephant an angworm. We can't get arrested for doing it. There is need of peace, Heaven knows. There is need of a peace league, if it can insure peace. If it can't, it should still continue to try. But let us not commit the stupendous folly of assuming that all wars are ended forever, and that America is eternally guaranteed against danger from foreign aggression.

A few weeks ago, two Americans captured by Mexican bandits saved their lives by paying a ransom of $10,000. We aren't safe even in our own back yard.

HETEROGENEOUS.

We hear so much about the freedom of Ireland—or rather the lack of it—that it is well to be certain what we mean.

The northern part of Ireland was colonized hundreds of years ago by settlers from Scotland. They have preserved to a great degree the habits and qualities of their ancestors. Even the names have survived. McGovern, McCoy and McDermott reveal their origin in their prefixes. A McCormack is of a different stock from that of an O'Connor.

The Scotch are essentially a race of ambitious toilers. They are notably a nation of machinists. Nearly every marine engine room on the ocean contains a Scotchman.

What wonder, then, that the north of Ireland is dotted with wealthy manufacturing towns? And what wonder that the south of Ireland wants to help divide the income?

The south of Ireland contains the same stock that came there two thousand years ago, reinforced a little, perhaps, by the British, or Celtic races who fled hither when the Scandinavians and German Saxons made their conquests. They have preserved till today too much of the conditions that existed then. The northerners decided to do otherwise.

The Irish population is as complex as the Irish question. Without criticising the qualities of the southerners, one of which—an intense love of freedom—shows how high they can rise, we must concede that they have not made their end of the island a counterpart of the north in industry or wealth, although they have exactly the same political privileges, and more than the same political representation as any other citizens of the British Empire. Which are facts to be borne in mind when we undertake to determine offhand all the Irish problems that we have not yet begun to understand.

WHO'S WHO?

The self-determination of small peoples is to be more than a political process. It is going to be an exercise in comparative ethnology.

There are some small nations to be self-determined whose names we have only just heard of. And there are some that we haven't heard of yet.

No doubt there are folks in Lancaster who have always known who the Croations are. And the Jugo-Slavs. And the Lithuanians. Bosnians, Cingalese, Koreans, etc. Most of us probably, have a fairly distinct idea where these different people live. Some of us, perhaps, don't know that. And very few of us have a precise idea of their exact political status.

It is perplexing to be confronted with the question whether a certain race is or is not a classified subdivision of a larger race. And, if so, whether it ought to be cut loose or not. And if not, why.

The Koreans have just put in a claim for self determination, and one of their reasons is that they are Christians. Some of them probably are. Their claim has a religious as well as a political basis. And it seems about as good a claim as several others that we have heard lately.

But it seems strange that we have only just heard it, and that the political side of it is kept carefully in the background. If theological convictions have been nourishing these aspirations so long, why have they been concealed till now? The inference seems to be that it is at present the fashion to claim political independence of some one or other, and the Koreans judged that it was time to get in line.

There is no question that, as long as this job of re-charting the world goes on, the more complex and diversified it will become. And it seems likely that every claim that is made has in it the seeds of another war.

Dandelion greens will be the next seasonable dish. It costs nothing except time and labor.

Palmer.

After an illness of over three years, Mr. Tom Palmer, formerly of this county, where he was so well known and well connected, died in an Indianapolis Hospital yesterday morning, where he was taken several weeks ago from his home in Greencastle, Indiana, where he had lived for the past ten years.

Mr. Palmer was about sixty-one years of age and leaves seven children beside his widow, most of whom were at his bedside when the end came.

He was a brother of Mrs. Emma Higginbotham and George Palmer of this city and Mrs. Marion Johnson and Mrs. Will West of the county.

The body is expected to arrive in Lancaster tomorrow (Friday) and interment will take place in the local cemetery.

Miss Goodloe Dies.

(Danville Daily Messenger)

The announcement of the death of Miss Nannie Goodloe, which occurred in this city, at 2 o'clock last Friday morning, caused deep sorrow to many who knew her in her childhood days. She had been teaching in the School for the Deaf at Talladega, Alabama, for many years. For a time she had been suffering from a complication of diseases, and arrived in this city Thursday morning, expecting to be treated by local physicians. But alas instead, she grew suddenly worse and sank rapidly to the end.

Miss Goodloe was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Goodloe who for many years, resided in the West End of this county, owning a portion of the farm, now belonging to Mr. Frank Tumme. The entire family was well known in this county where they had many sincere friends. Miss Goodloe is survived by three brothers, Mr. John Goodloe, Mr. Duke Goodloe of Lebanon, Mr. W. O. Goodloe, of Lancaster, and one sister, Miss Virginia Goodloe.

Pupils Visit College.

Fifteen pupils, taking the agricultural course in the Little Rock High School in Bourbon County, recently visited the College of Agriculture and the Experiment Station at Lexington. The party spent the entire day getting acquainted with the specialists and the experimental work which is being carried on in the barns and fields of the Experiment Station farm. The youngsters, their teachers who came with them and the people at the college and station enjoyed the novel experience of pupils going to school outside the class room.

Fidelity in small things is at the base of every great achievement. We too often forget this, and yet no truth needs more to be kept in mind, particularly in the troubled eras of history and in the crises of individual life.—Charles Wagner.

Easily Arranged.

A woman invited Ed to come and see her. He asked if she had a little boy to play with him, and she said no. He then asked if she would like to have a little boy, and when she said yes Ed replied: "My mamma will tell you that brought me to her to bring you a little boy."

To Remove Grease.

The following method, described in Popular Science Monthly, has been substituted for the use of gasoline and other light oils: Boil the parts in caustic soda lye; one pound to a gallon of water; then brush while the articles are hot. Caustic soda is recommended as better than ordinary soda, since it removes the fat or grease to dissolve more quickly.

Taboo.

When anything is forbidden, or its exclusion is ordered, English-speaking people sometimes say it is "taboo." The word is derived from a custom once common in Polynesia and New Zealand. It signifies something set apart or prohibited because of its being either sacred or accursed. The system originated in a superstitious dread of the invisible powers of evil.

Copper's Great Value.

Next after gold and silver, copper is to us the most interesting of all the metals. Fresh and free of corrosion (as seen in a new minted cent) it is really more beautiful than gold, having a more colorful and brilliant luster. It is incomparably more useful than gold, serving as it does a vast number of employments for which there is no satisfactory substitute.

Refuted.

"That's a hard count in dat house," said the ragged wayfarer. "Did she threaten to sic de dog on youse?" asked his comrade. "Naw, but when I said I'd seen better days an' a lump came in my throat because I had to beg for a bite to eat, she told me to swaller de lump an' maybe I wouldn't be so hungry."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Be Your Boy's Comrade.

All little fellows are ambitious to be comrades of the "big boys." He a big boy yourself and get some fun out of life. And at the same time you will be building a future for your son that will be a more glorious memorial, a more effective monument to yourself than could be raised by all the marble and granite in the halls of the whole world.

Gun Barrels.

A rather interesting side light on the question of gun barrel life is a determination of the actual length of time to which a good shotgun barrel is subjected to the force and burning effect of the powder charge during its lifetime. If 100,000 shots are fired from a shotgun the inside of the barrel is actually exposed to the force of the powder charge for about four minutes.

MANY FAILURES BLASTED HOPES

Mrs. Reid Tells Efforts To Gain Relief—Tru-

Aid.

Henderson, Ky., May 14th, 1919.
"I had suffered so long that I'd almost come to believe that life wasn't worth living, but it's different now, for Trutona has given me new energy and new hope", Mrs. Emma Reid, 65 years old, a well known Henderson woman of 1502 Washington street, said on April 10.

"For the past twelve years I've been trying to get relief from kidney trouble. Severe pains between my shoulders and in my limbs caused me to become very nervous. My stomach wasn't in very good shape, either. Gas would form in my stomach and cause me to belch annoyingly.

"I feel more like doing my work now than I have for a great many months, since taking Trutona. The severe pains between my shoulders and my limbs have disappeared and I'm not nervous any more. I don't feel bloated after meals now and I'm not annoyed by the belching."

Trutona, as Mrs. Reid says, has proven remarkably beneficial in the treatment of catarrhal affections of the stomach, liver and kidneys and is a true reconstructive tonic following attacks of pneumonia, influenza and the like.

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Lancaster at R. E. McROBERTS DRUG STORE.

Small Gain In Church Membership Due To War and Influenza Epidemic.

Increase Less Than Any Other Year of Present Century.

During the year 1918, the last year of the world war, the churches of the United States made a smaller gain in membership than any other year in the present century, according to statistics prepared by the Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll for the Christian Herald. Dr. Carroll has been preparing annual statistics of churches for more than quarter of a century, formerly for the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ and for the past several years for the religious press.

The net increase as shown in Dr. Carroll's tables was only 284,500, the small increase being shared by practically all the denominations, while a number of the denominations show an actual decrease in membership. The causes given for the small gain are absence of pastors in army or their work and the closing of the churches for several weeks, and in some communities for months, on account of the influenza epidemic.

The total number of church members in the United States at the close of the year was 41,565,908, divided among the denominations as follows: Roman Catholic Church, three bodies, 14,927,466; Methodist, fifteen bodies, 7,579,311; Baptist, fourteen bodies, 7,213,922; Lutheran, sixteen bodies, 2,445,812; Presbyterian, ten bodies, 2,259,358; Disciples of Christ, two bodies, 1,511,160; Protestant Episcopal, two bodies, 1,072,321; Congregational, 815,396; Reformed, four bodies, 519,962; United Brethren, two bodies, 367,996; Evangelical, two bodies, 209,697; Evangelical Synod, 260,045; Eastern Orthodox churches, 472,794. The remainder is divided among thirty or more smaller denominations, none of which have a total membership of only a few hundred.

The smallest denomination reported is the Temple Society, with two churches, two ministers and 260 members.

In spite of the comparatively small increase in membership on the part of the churches, the growth in the number of churches and ministers compares favorably with former years. The ministers number 189,288, a gain for the year of 1,922. The number of congregations is 230,658, an increase over the previous year of 560.

800,000 WED

Under Lenine's Order Naturalizing Women.

Classes Mingling Under A Forced System Of Registry.

Milan.—A Bolshevik statesman from whom the Journal Epoca obtained a special interview respecting the Leninist legislation on the sex problem, complains that a vast amount of grotesque misrepresentations have appeared on the subject in hostile or un-sympathetic press.

Abolition of celibacy has been adopted, he stated, "simply as a means toward class equality. Every woman, on attaining her eighteenth and every man on his twentieth year, is bound to inscribe his or her name in a special register kept at the Commissariat of Unions, and must then contract a union within the period of six months.

"Should they fail to do so, they are served with three warning notices at successive intervals of two months, before any step is taken in the way of coercive measures. Every bachelor and every spinster is bound to furnish a written explanation of their irregular condition and the only reasons admitted as valid are serious ill health or organic defects.

"When two persons wish to marry they present themselves to the People's Commissary, who witnesses their marriage. The same course is followed as regards separating, only that the commissary, after freeing the unhappy pair inscribes the man afresh on the celibate list and the woman on the register of marriageable persons, notifying each of the obligation to find another partner within six months.

"In case children have been born from their union they are either delivered to the custody of particular parent desiring them or else divided between them. The Commissariat of Unions aids the youth of either sex in their quest of a mate by promoting and facilitating introductions among all healthy forms of social intercourse families of every type."

Down to the end of March, he says, the number of marriages celebrated between members of the workmen's and middle-class families totaled 800,000.

Bankrupt Land.

They don't know much in the big cities about the decreased productive power of agricultural land. But we haven't their excuse.

We are not all farmers in Lancaster. But we are in a better position than New Yorkers and Chicagoans to know what a farm looks like. There are people in the metropolis who don't seem to know that you get milk from a cow. They think you get it from a milkman. They think tomatoes come from a can.

But there are cogent truths in the science of agriculture which both New York and Lancaster seem content to ignore, and which grim necessity will force us to recognize. We shall find the schooling less painful if we start the course at once.

The chemical elements which make soil fertile are nitrogen, potassium, phosphorus, sulphur, sodium, and a few others. The production of various crops impoverishes the soil in proportion to the quantity of these ingredients which they subtract from it.

At the price which tobacco farmers now pay for fertilizer the growth of one ton of tobacco takes from the soil $150 worth of nitrogen, phosphoric acid, and potash.

A bushel of wheat deprives the soil in which it grows of 60 cents worth of the chemical constituents which are needed to nourish its growth. And when a million bushels of wheat are exported we export with them $600,000 worth of chemical fertilizer for which we are not paid, and which in some form or other finds its way eventually into the soil of some foreign country where it is there, enriched while ours is impoverished.

There are now in the United States less than 750,000 square miles of land waiting to be cultivated, including all ground not yet drained or irrigated. When this is taken up the steady course of soil exhaustion will be in progress everywhere, and it will be a simple problem in arithmetic how soon we will be agriculturally bankrupt. Altogether it seems high time for us to be taking under consideration the question of maintaining the fertility of arable land.

What they did in Europe we can do. Hitherto the richness of untapped resources have enabled us to neglect those thrifty policies with which older nations have been able to prevent the exhaustion to which all cultivated land is eventually liable. The sooner we start the work of conservation the easier we shall find it.

KHAKI COLUMN

The following letter was received by Miss Lucy Jennings from her cousin, Conn Asher, who is with the 3rd, Army of Occupation. He lived near Point Lick until three years ago, and is well known in this county.

"Oberhonnefeld, Germany, Meh 28, Miss Lucy Jennings,

Buena Vista, Kentucky.

Dear Cousin:—

I just got to thinking about not having written to any of you since I have been over here, and as I expect to come home some of these days, and might want to come to see you and the rest of the little Jenningses, I thought I had better write to you and get you in a state of mind that would make it safe for me to come around.

I have been in Germany since Dec. 1st, and we have been across the Rhine since Dec. 13th, it was one of the rainiest days you ever saw, and we were about as unenthusiastic lot as you ever saw, we were just finishing a 225 mile hike, and were in no humor to be very happy over anything, except something to eat and a place to sleep.

This is a great country, and you have always heard that story about the iluns being the most efficient people in the world. Well I guess they are, and I will tell you why, they never let anything go to waste, they save it and use it up. We waste more than they live on, and the bread they eat isn't fit for a hog to eat, a loaf of it will weigh about six pounds and they are not much larger than a loaf of bread at home. But they work their cows to carts and plows, get them out after milking time in the morning, tie a lot of chains, padn and truck on their horns and make them pull by that all day, and then they have the nerve to milk them again at night. I'll tell you these Germans are a heartless people or they couldn't treat a poor old cow like that.

I am sending you one of my pictures I had taken with two other fellows the other day. I think it would have been a lot better without them, but you know how some fellows are, think they are good looking, and want to be in every picture taken in camp. These were taken in Coblenz, and it is some town too. You can see all kinds of things there, and I enjoyed the time spent there fine. I'll tell you about it all when I come down to see you.

We are expecting to sail for home in May and I will be glad to get started, for things in this country "just ain't natural tall, tall". And do you remember the time I ate enough to fill that big pair of pants of Buds, well that's nothing to what I will do when I get there this time.

Be good, tell all the folks I would like to see them, and will be down as soon as I can after I get home.

Doctors' Fees Regulated.

The fees of doctors were prescribed by law in Babylon in the days of Nebuchadnezzar. The code of Hammurabi, the great lawgiver, provided: "If a doctor has operated with a bronze lancet on a man for a severe wound, and has cured him, or has removed a cataract with a bronze lancet for a gentleman, and cured the eye of the gentleman, he shall receive ten shekels of silver. If the patient be the son of a freedman, the doctor shall receive five shekels."

About Roller Skates.

Roller skates were patented and used in France as early as 1810. A few years later an Englishman named Skers patented them and manufactured them in London. Skers' skate consisted of a sandal mounted on five narrow wheels in a single row, so arranged, however, that only two of them could touch the floor at the same time. Several other skular skates were patented in England during the next 40 years.

TO MAKE PRETTY KERCHIEFS.

Roll and Whip Border Is Made Attractive by Drawn Threads of a Deeper Hue.

The woman who delights in making dainty handkerchiefs is usually interested in novel ways of varying the plain square which she wishes to beautify. The handkerchief with the "roll and whip" border (the hem of which is rolled tightly by moistening it a little with the finger tips, and whipped around and back again with colored thread, to form tiny crosses for a border) has been such a favorite that it is now being ornamented by drawn threads of a deeper hue, inserted parallel to the edge, which give a most effective touch to the finished handkerchief.

It is but a simple matter to draw these through the linen if they are attached carefully to the ends of the threads of the original fabric, which are to be removed to make room for the colored ones. When the old thread is slipped out the new one follows automatically in its place. Two lines may be inserted parallel if preferred to give more color and character to the design. A simple finishing at one corner is perhaps the most satisfactory decoration to finish the gift. Handkerchief linen is obtainable in a variety of exquisite shades, which are most attractive when set off by a finishing touch in darker hue.

USE FOR OLD CORSET STEELS

Stays Dropping From Worn Garment Prove Valuable Accessory to the Sewing Basket.

When a steel drops out of the half-worn corset there hardly seems any use to which it can any longer be put; but if you will save a couple of these steels, especially the wider and more pliable ones, they will prove a valuable accessory to your sewing basket. When sewing buttons, hooks and eyes or snap fasteners on a hem where it is desired that the stitching does not show through to the opposite side of the garment, as, for instance, when sewing the fasteners on the front of a fine lawn or crepe de chine shirt-waist, leave one end of the hem unstitched so as to insert your steel. Your needle accordingly will pass through only one thickness of goods in sewing on the fastener.

Corset steels are also handy in making bags opening at the side and used for all sorts of utility purposes. Place the steel across the top of the bag to brace the stitching. It is strong and pliable, and in the end will serve its purposes far better than a piece of wood, no matter how light.

SMUDGE SAVES POTATO CROP

"Smoke Screen" Successfully Applied to Field of Tubers in Hardin County, Ohio.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A member of the farm bureau in Hardin county, Ohio, saved a 20-acre field of late potatoes from frost last fall by the use of a smudge. The potatoes had made practically no growth during July and August because of dry weather, but were maturing in good shape when, on the night of September 21, the temperature dropped below the freezing point. Preparations had been made for just such an emergency. Hired straw had been placed in readiness, and at 10:30 that night the fires were started. It was found that a heavy smoke could be made by using wet straw after the time had been applied. Fires were kept burning in 102 places, and it is estimated that ten tons of straw were used. The entire field was kept covered with smoke, and after the sun had been up a few hours the following day it was plain that the potatoes had been saved. The potatoes remained green until October 1. Other foliage, not completely covered with smoke, was killed by the frost.

TO PREVENT INSECT INJURY

Add Arsenate of Lead to Bordeaux Mixture—Use Care in Making and Applying Material.

Simple Bordeaux mixture will not kill insects. In order to prevent insect injury add arsenate of lead at the rate of two pounds to each fifty gallons of Bordeaux (or ten pounds to the 250-gallon tank). Great care should be used when making and applying Bordeaux mixture. Do not spray trees with it during damp, foggy weather or during a rainy period; for it is likely to cause burning of the leaves and russeting of the fruit. At such a time lime-sulphur solution may be substituted for Bordeaux.

POTATO INSECTS VERY INJURIOUS

Colorado Beetle Is Sure to Exact
Heavy Toll if Close Watch
Is Not Kept.

HARMFUL TO GARDEN CROPS

Attacks Eggplant, Tomato, Ground
Cherry and Other Plants—Blister
Beetle Feeds Upon All Forms of Garden Truck.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

If careful watch is not kept, the Colorado potato beetle is certain to exact a heavy toll. This beetle and its "slugs" are so well known that no description is necessary here.

The range of this pest covers a large portion of the United States, but it is not found extensively or in especially injurious numbers near the Rocky mountains. It extends from New England and Canada to Florida, westward to Texas, and in the northern Pacific region, where it has become troublesome only recently. Both the "slugs" (the young, or larvae), and the beetles (adults) feed upon the potato plants. After passing the winter in the ground, the beetles usually appear at about the same time as the potato plants, lay their eggs, and continue feeding. They often destroy small areas, especially those grown for garden purposes. When the "slugs" of the first crop begin their work they usually finish up that begun by the overwintered beetles, leaving only bare stems, which become dry and black. After exhausting the potato, the beetles attack eggplant and other plants of the potato family, including tomato, ground cherry, jimson weed, and related weeds. In the most northern range of this insect there is probably only one generation a year, but two generations and a partial third occur southward.

Ducks, geese, and other domestic fowls eat the beetles and larvae. So also do snakes, toads, and skunks, which frequently gorge on them. Arsenate of lead is the best remedy, applied as advised under "Lead Arsenate."

Blister Beetles.
Blister beetles are next in importance to the Colorado potato beetle as potato insects. They are slender, somewhat soft bodied, of various colors, and feed upon all forms of garden truck, appearing to prefer potatoes, following with beans, peas, and related crops, beets, cabbages, squashes and others. When occurring on the potato, they are sometimes called the "old-fashioned potato bugs."

Lead arsenate is the best remedy, prepared and applied as directed for the Colorado potato beetle, but driving and burning also are useful.

BOOST GIVEN SHEEP RAISING

Organization Formed in Louisiana to Interest Farmers in Breeding
Better Animals.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The 25 sheep-extension men of the United States department of agriculture now working in co-operative demonstration projects with state extension forces will be under the supervision of H. H. Hedell, who was formerly county agent of Green county, Pennsylvania. Mr. Hedell has been appointed specialist in sheep husbandry and began his work in the federal department March 17. The work of the department's extension men in Louisiana is illustrative of what these workers are doing in many parts of the country to improve the sheep industry. He assisted in bringing the sheepmen of that state together at a meeting of live stock raisers, which resulted in the organization of the Louisiana Sheep Breeders' and Wool Growers' association. The purpose of this organization is to interest farmers in raising more and better sheep, to sell their wool clips co-operatively, and to unite them in their fight against sheep-killing dogs.

Her Choice

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.

She was a dainty bit of curly girlhood, lithe, lovely of face, exquisitely attired as to becoming neatness. There was spirit in her, too, for she confronted Arthur Randall, a loutish lad of fifteen, with blazing eyes, flushed cheek and white, delicate hands clenched.

"You great stupid!" she quavered. "Look at my scarf, wringing wet. And—you coward! When the plank bent you thought only of yourself, and let go of me and jumped for dry land, and if I hadn't been quick and climbed I would have gone into the brook," and Erma Bruce turned her back squarely upon the culprit.

"Where you going?" he challenged. "I am going to walk to the old bridge. Catch me wanting your company or trusting to your care again!"

They were children of wealthy parents, neighbors, and until Arthur had got into domineering ways, had been close companions.

To get home from a ramble they had evaded the bridges spanning two brooks and trusted to a narrow plank to help a short cut home, for Arthur was disagreeable and Erma cross and pettish.

"Hold on!" he objected, as she started off. "You promised a kiss if I got across that plank."

"Come and get it," flashed back Erma, and as the callow youth approached her hand described a sharp circle. He drew back with a mutter of rage, nursing his stinging cheek.

"If you're ever my wife, I'll make you pay for that!" he snarled.

"If I ever am, I deserve to be!" cried Erma disdainfully. She rounded a clump of bushes and hesitated. Another boy stood in her path. He was totally unlike the dandified Arthur, "only a common boy," but she smiled upon him.

"You look tired," said Waldron Pearce. "It's a good mile to the bridge, and you save that by fording the second brook. It's quite shallow just now, and if you like I'll see that you get across without spilling those pretty slippers."

"How will you?" entreated Erma. "I'll carry you. Don't fear. I'll not drop you nor leave you in mid-stream."

He was not of her set. His father was only an ordinary millwright, but Erma walked by his side hoping that Arthur saw them. When they reached the second brook he was stumbling along behind them.

"If you please," spoke Waldron, and he lifted Erma in his arms. She did not demur except to tell him he would wet his shoes and stockings, but he only laughed at that and his color ran high at the contact of those pretty arms clasping his neck, confidentially. Then Erma thanked him as he landed her high and dry beyond the brook. And then a mischievous twinkle came into her eyes as she saw Arthur in full view watching them.

"You may kiss me, you brave boy!" she spoke, in a voice purposely raised. "I love brave boys. Good-by, and thank you," and she darted homeward with a mocking laugh, meant for the discomfited Arthur.

The slap Arthur soon forgot, for he lacked sensitiveness and saw little of Erma for four years.

His father had died and Arthur was put in place as manager of his business. As to Waldron he was a shop foreman, earning a liberal salary, but not counting much socially.

One day Erma was driving her limousine when it broke down directly in front of the Pearce home. A sight of the open door of a rear structure used by Waldron as a shop, influenced her to hope that she might command ready mechanical aid. She left the machine and passed through the yard. She halted at the echo of familiar voices.

"I will give you twenty thousand dollars for your invention," sounded the voice of Arthur. "It is indispensable to our plant and I will take the risk of the contrivance turning out impracticable."

"My price is one million dollars," came the clear, incisive declaration from Waldron. "As to its utility and value, the best experts have passed favorably upon those features."

"I'll double my offer, then," spoke Arthur, "and I say, Pearce, you can't deny that you have a sneaking fondness for Erma Bruce. Good! I'll throw her into the bargain."

"I would give a world if it were mine for one smile from the loveliest woman I have ever met," said Waldron with deep emotion, "but I must resent your right to allude to her as your especial property."

Erma drew back out of view as Arthur left the shop. Waldron wondered at her suffused face and gracious manner as she asked him to examine the automobile. Within a few minutes he had adjusted the break. He thrilled with pleasure as Erma invited him to a social function at her home to take place the following week.

It was not a casual impulse. In a flashing moment the contemptible overconfident Arthur had faded into insignificance with Erma in comparison with the manly young inventor, and it was destined that, just as he had carried her over the brook in the sweet olden time, he was to share her company through all the years of happy married life.

SHEEP CLUB BOY'S PROFITS

Investment Paying 200 Per Cent Induced Farmers to Take Renewed Interest in Industry.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Late in the fall of 1917, George Irwin of Henry County, Indiana, and nine other boys in his neighborhood organized a sheep club. A few interested stockmen and the local bank made it possible for the club boys to secure one pure-bred ewe apiece. Each boy gave his note to the bank for the purchase price of his sheep.

In the summer of 1918 George Irwin presented the following statement of his work and investment:

Disbursements.
Cost of 1 ewe	$10.00
Feed	2.00
Interest on note	1.00
Total cost	$13.00
Receipts.
1 ewe (winter)	$10.00
1 lamb (spring)	2.00
1 lamb (winter)	2.00
Wool (spring)	5.00
Total receipts	$19.00
Total profit	$6.00

Investments paying 200 per cent were worth looking into decided the farmers who lived in the locality of this club, and interest in sheep raising increased.

Another boy in the Henry County club has developed a flock of 20 ewes, and plans to have more. His father has become so interested in his son's work that, although the boy is rather young, he is allowed to go to sales and to do his own bidding on prospects for the flock. Practically all the Sheep Club Members Exhibiting Their Animals.

Boys engaged in the sheep-club work are keeping their foundation animals and at the same time are adding to their stock.

Previous to 1918 there were but few boys and girls organized into sheep clubs under the supervision of the department of agriculture and the state agricultural colleges. With the high price of wool and mutton, the sheep project, however, has become increasingly popular. Last year 257 such clubs were organized with an enrollment of 3,613 members. During the year $3,000 lambs were raised by these young people and 2,000 pounds of wool were marketed. The total value of the fleeces at the end of the year was $131,178.40; the initial cost of the sheep, together with the expense of feeding them, was $17,082.82; the total profit made by the boys and girls who were members of the sheep clubs and who continued the work throughout the year was $94,095.58. The results the boys have been getting have opened the eyes of their fathers. The boys and girls in the sheep clubs are demonstrating in every state that sheep are profitable if well handled.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

A self-feeder assists in economical pork production because it prevents waste.

If there are no trees in the hog lots, it will be necessary to provide artificial shade.

There is no way we can make pork faster than to turn the hogs out into a field of clover.

A permanent, well-built dehorning chute is much more satisfactory than a portable one.

When pigs are kept free from parasites it is not hard to get them to grow at winning time.

It would be a good idea for each farmer to raise a few calves and get the benefit of higher prices likely to prevail.

Tobacco dust or stems chopped fine and placed where sheep and lambs can always have access to them will help prevent stomach worms.

"Own Your Own Home."

Is the slogan nowadays and a good one too. Why don't you do it? Don't think that you require a very large bank account to do it. If you have enough to make a reasonable first payment on a suitable small place, and cannot make satisfactory arrangements with the present owner, go and have a heart to heart talk with your banker about it. Even if he can't do it himself he probably knows of somebody who would be glad to invest in a little place and sell it on the easy payment plan. Such an investment, with the certainty of getting his principal gradually back with interest, would appeal to many a man. We are taking it for granted that your credit is good; if it is you are the man we are talking to.

Now we will suppose that the preliminaries are over and that you are settled in your own home. You are a householder now, with a feeling of pride and responsibility. You plant ornamental shrubbery where and when you wish. You make your little garden. You potter about in your spare hours, and improve or repair your house. Whatever you do enhances values or at least keeps them up.

There is no necessity of asking any one whether you may or may not do this or that. You have the independent and contented feeling of a man who has really a stake on the face of the earth.

And your children—they will have something more than a temporary abode—a real home. It will be a home that they can look back to with remembered happiness. Moving from one place to another does not tend to building up character. A settled home with all its accessories does. Convinced? Then go and look up your home.

The Head of the Family.

Grease on Leather.
Rub the stain lightly with ether and then if there are any marks left sponge away with a weak solution of oxalic acid. If you are afraid to trust your own ability to remove the stain take the grip to a leather store where bags are sold.

Woman Thinks She Is Privileged to Talk.

"If anyone ever had a miserable stomach I surely had. It was growing worse, too, all the time. Had severe pains and attacks every ten days or two weeks and had to call a doctor, who could only relieve me for a short while. Two years ago last February I took a treatment of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and I have not had a spell of pain or misery since. My friends just wonder that I am looking so well. I feel I am privileged to talk about it."

It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the intestinal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. The dose will convince or money refunded. R. E. McROBERTS and druggists everywhere. adv.

Urban Vs. Rural.

Chicago and Detroit, two of our largest Western industrial centers, have just been confronted with the question of "wet or dry" in an election. Both unhesitatingly voted "wet."

The Chicago question was purely a municipal one. In Michigan the voting on prohibition was state-wide. The state went dry.

The sentiment in rural communities is largely against the sale of liquor. This is probably because the smaller places are more largely American, and the customs of life are simpler. The complex life of a great city, full of the foreign element, and with less social restraint favors the "wet" side. The small places go "dry."

In a state-wide election the small places can always outvote the large ones. In the end the rural communities can enforce their standards and wishes upon the city dwellers. We look in time for the principles and sentiments of the country to clean up the large cities, in many directions.

METHODISTS OF SOUTH RALLY TO THE FLAG

FROM ONE END OF COUNTRY TO THE OTHER THEY WILL GATHER UNDER BANNER OF CROSS IN CAMPAIGN, MAY 1920.

Methodists of the South will unite May 1920 in conducting the greatest denominational campaign ever undertaken in the history of the world. During the week every member of the church will rally to the flag of the cross through the call of Methodism and given of their time, energy and pocketbooks to the raising of a fund of $25,000,000. Every dollar of the money raised will be spent in missionary work, both at home and abroad, ten million being turned back into the upbuilding of churches, schools and hospitals in the South. A large part of this sum will go towards increasing the salaries of the ministers of the rural churches, particularly those who have been working against great difficulties in the matter of taking care of circuits containing a number of churches.

The Centenary movement of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, not only means increased salaries for the pastors in the rural districts but also the establishment of mission schools in many inaccessible and needy communities of the country. Especial effort will be made to awaken the laymen of the church everywhere so that in those churches where a minister cannot preach every Sunday, there will be a service just the same. Because of the loyalty which Methodists everywhere have towards their church it is believed that, even though $25,000,000 is a large sum, it will be raised.

BETTER HOG CHOLERA SERUM

Under Federal Supervision Production Has Increased and Quality Has Been Improved.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Less than 1 per cent of hog cholera serum manufactured under federal supervision during the last year was found to be unfit for use and its sale prevented by federal officials. Of 271,402,530 cubic centimeters of serum made in licensed establishments, 2,488,161 was declared unfit. Corresponding figures for last year were 238,801,270 cubic centimeters of serum produced and 5,636,875, or more than 2 per cent, was unfit and likewise withheld from market.

This comparison shows that federal supervision has increased the production of serum for combating hog cholera in the United States and has improved the quality. Serum declared unfit is not, however, necessarily injurious; it is frequently condemned merely for lack of potency. Hog cholera virus used simultaneously with serum is subject to similar control.

In its supervision of hog cholera serum and virus manufacture the bureau of animal industry prevents either product of doubtful quality from leaving the establishment in which it is made. A knowledge of this policy by swine raisers of the United States, it is believed, will cause more herds to be vaccinated and result in greatly reduced losses from hog cholera.

PROPER SOIL FOR TOMATOES

Land Should Be Neither Too Rich Nor Very Poor—Cotton or Corn Land Favored.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Good tomato land is neither extremely rich nor very poor, but just such land as would grow extra good corn or cotton. Land that was manured heavily the previous year will generally grow good tomatoes.

Hans was on a visit to his grandfather's farm, and for the first time saw a lot of bees making honey. After looking at them with deep interest for a few moments he said: "Well, I must say they are certainly a wonderful lot of little animals."

Learn to Use Both Hands.

You have noticed perhaps that left-handed people seem to have an advantage over right-handed people in being able to use the right hand with greater ease than right-handed people can use their untrained hand. It is a good thing to practice writing and drawing with the left hand.

Not Up to Expectations.

Jane has often envied her small playmate who has a baby brother and she frequently expressed a wish for a wee brother, too. When her wish came true she was happily excited until she had seen him. Auntie noticed her disappointment and asked Jane if she was proud of the new baby. Wistfully the child answered: "I guess I is, but I think he is a size or so too small."

Early American Newspapers.

The first newspaper published in America made its appearance in Boston on September 25, 1689, and was called Publick Occurrences. It was intended as a monthly, but had only one issue, as it was immediately suppressed by the government for political reasons. The Boston News-Letter was the first permanent newspaper in this country, and usually receives credit for being the pioneer, as it was the first that survived. This initial number appeared on April 20, 1704, and its publication was continued for 72 years.

Recognition Among Bees.

Naturalists for a long time were at a loss to understand how it was that insects were enabled to so quickly recognize an intruder among their family or settlement. It has been determined that in most cases they recognize each other by smell. Among the bees each distinctive class of workers—the guard, the farmer, the pollen carrier, the waxmaker, the architect, etc.—has its own distinctive odor. And besides each bee has its own separate hive odor, which it its passport into its own particular home.

McCombs Road Oil

"From the time of the Roman Caesars it has been recognized that prosperity follows good roads."

THE high cost of material and the shortage of labor put a premium upon the preservation of present equipment; and for the preservation of good roads a gallon of oil is worth a bushel of labor.

Imperative demands of the war period have prevented adequate road maintenance, improvement and extension. The immense transportation problem of reconstruction requires that the arteries of traffic be kept in good condition.

Roads well oiled last indefinitely. A well-oiled road is impervious to the destructive forces of nature and offers adequate resistance to the wear and tear of heavy traffic.

Three Aces Beat Hun's Bluff

FIVE American aces who have seen service on the western front are flying over the Fourth Federal Reserve District in the interest of the Victory Loan campaign.

They will fly bombing planes which had been destined to carry the doctrine of terror into Hun territory before the armistice was signed.

Among the men who will operate these planes are Lieut. Frederick E. Luff, Cleveland, who will be flight commander; Lieut. Res. L. Uden, Cleveland, and Lieut. J. V. Garver, Strasburg, O.

Each of these men has flown over Hun trenches and each has a number of Hun balloons or planes to his credit.

These flyers put on a real air circus. Their hope to drive home the conviction that this is the last opportunity stay-at-home Americans will have to show their government where they stand as real patriots.

Each of these men has risked his life many times.

"It was all in our day's work," Luff said, referring to the fact that he was awarded the distinguished flying cross for exceptional bravery and gallantry in action.

Poor Excuses

"I bought bonds while the war was on; now my duty is toward my family and my business."

Is that so? The war was fought to protect your family and your business, and now you convict yourself of ingratitude by refusing to lend to pay for that protection.

V V V V

"Let the banks take the loan; they've got money."

Yes, they have money. They have your money and your neighbor's and your neighbor's neighbor's money. These deposits in banks must take the loan. The loaning surplus in banks must be counted upon to keep business going. All the banks in America couldn't float the loan with their own money.

V V V V

"The bonds of former Liberty Loans are below par. I can't buy notes on a down market."

What do you care what the bond market is if the Government promises to pay you par at maturity? Did the Yanks fail to fight because they were below par in the estimation of the enemy? No. They proved themselves above par when everything was against them.

Henry Doughboy Is Home Again And He Writes

My buddy, says to me, one night when we were reading "The Stars and Stripes" up front: "Well, Hen, I see they're going to have a new Liberty Loan back home. There's five months' pay coming to us from the paymaster tomorrow, and I'm going to help out the folks at home and take a hundred dollars' worth." That was the time of the fourth loan.

Well, he did, handing the money over to the skipper right there at the paymaster, telling him to buy a bond for him.

That was a Thursday. Saturday morning, at daylight, we jumped off. Half an hour later I didn't have a buddy any more—place o' shrap.

Go, he was a Man! He gave everything he had to his country. And since I've been back I've heard some people growling because Uncle Sam is asking 'em to make one more loan to him so he can finish up the job.

I hope my old buddy can't hear what they're saying.

War Dogs of Belgian Artillery On Tour to Boost Liberty Loan

THE Dogs of War did yeoman work for the Belgians. Small field pieces mounted on rubber-tired carriages were whisked about the Belgian battlefields by griffons, or Belgian Police Dogs, such as are shown in the photograph.

A detachment of Belgian veterans is on tour in this country with some of these war dogs giving demonstrations in the larger cities in the interest of the Victory Liberty Loan.

The men are all veterans of the entire war. They were at the siege of Liege and were in the thick of it until the armistice was signed.

FARM STOCK

NECESSARY FEED FOR STOCK

Animals Help to Retain Fertility of Soil and Provide Profitable Use for Roughage.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Now that farming is to be restored to a peace-time basis, the United States department of agriculture believes that many lands formerly devoted to pasture or meadow but recently used for emergency grain production should be reseeded to grass.

The signing of the armistice found the United States with relatively large supplies of foods and relatively small supplies of feeds, with much land impoverished by having been planted to grain year after year, and with a still increasing demand for meat and fat. Numbers of all classes of live stock have been maintained. Those of swine and sheep have been increased, the former largely, the latter slightly. But the quantities of forage and pasturage for live stock have been diminished.

Sound agricultural practice demands, the department thinks, the reestablishment of regular and satisfactory rotations so that fertility may be restored and the live stock carrying capacity of the land increased.

Live stock, since it helps to retain fertility on the land, provides a profitable use for large amounts of roughage and gives employment to labor throughout the year, should find a place on a larger number of farms.

Diversified farming should become more general, to the end that each farm shall produce the necessary food for its family and the necessary feed for its live stock.

Loss from preventable plant diseases should be guarded against by seed treatment and spraying.

Harvesting of fruits and vegetables before exposure to frost, and greater care during harvesting, packing, storing, and marketing, are urged, together with continued organized efforts for the prevention and control of diseases of animals.

MORE LIVE STOCK PRODUCED

Increase in Pork in West Virginia More Than Million and One-Half Pounds—Sillage Is Fed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

County agents of West Virginia, in carrying out the program of the United States department of agriculture and the state agricultural college to increase food production, last year encouraged the farmers of the state to keep additional sows, the result being that these sows produced 14,722 pigs, which increased West Virginia's pork production by more than a million and half pounds. The value of good blood in live stock breeding has been one of the things particularly emphasized by the agents and thereby 16,446 sows were bred to registered sires instead of scrubs, which meant an increased value at birth of calves of at least $104,400, it is estimated.

The agents report that 7,520 cattle were fed silage for the first time last winter with a resultant saving of not less than $37,600 to their owners. Ewes to the number of 6,865 were bred to registered rams instead of scrubs with a prospective increased value of the lamb crop of upward of $8,900. Sheep numbering 4,225 and valued at more than $21,000 were saved from the ravages of parasites through the activities of the various county agents.

Some hog men prefer to hand-feed their pigs during the weaning period.

If we are to continue to eat beef we must exert ourselves to produce more beef cattle.

More pigs are lost between farrowing and weaning than at any other period.

Outs, scattered out thinly to force exercise, are fed to brood sows by many good hog men.

There are a lot of cows in barns that ought to be in the cans. The cow-testing associations find them.

Kentucky Boy Says

Europe Needs Food.

Proudly wearing his overseas service strip, Henry C. Armstrong, of Murray, Ky., has just returned from service in France. Also he has just been awarded and is as proudly wearing the Honorable Service Bar of the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve for working 75 days or more on a farm in 1918. Henry enrolled in the Reserve March 21, 1918, and on July 4 he celebrated Independence Liberty Day in the spirit of his forefathers by enlisting in the United States army to help win the war. In France this Kentucky youth served in Battery D, 63d Artillery, (C. A. C.) A. E. F. During his service abroad Henry had an excellent opportunity to see conditions in Europe and in a recent letter says:

"In traveling over central and southern France I saw what was once a beautiful farming country. Today it is a terrible sight. It is very common to see several little old women, bent and lame, waiting in the village bakery for their small allowance of 'le pain' which citizens of the United States would not eat when hot and which is very much worse when cold. Yet they can not get even this without their government 'bread ticket'. There is only one remedy for this condition—America must help until France can 'get on her feet' once more.

"I have been discharged from the service only a few days, but I am back on the farm to do what I can to that Europe needs every pound and raise a big crop of food. I know every bushel we can send."

The call comes strong to the boys of Kentucky to go to the farms to help raise the crop to feed the starving millions of Europe and the Near East, and make good money besides. Information regarding the new uniform of the Reserve and the awards for faithful service in 1919 may be had by writing to George E. Stephens, Executive State Director, 345 Y. M. C. A. Building, Louisville, Ky.

Hardly an Ideal Citizen.

There is a story told of an ancient dandy in London who, taking one sunny afternoon, his accustomed stroll down Bond street, met an acquaintance hurrying in the direction of Westminster. "Whither away so fast this hot day?" inquired the dandy. "To the house of commons," cried his straggling friend, brushing past him. "What?" said the dandy, with a yawn, "does that go on still?"—Exchange.

HUGE ORGAN WILL FURNISH MUSIC FOR METHODIST CENTENARY CELEBRATION

SHIMMERING, pulsating strings; liquid, sparkling notes; broad, dignified diapasons; militant, exultant trumpets and reeds from the plaintive vox humana; the contemplative or choral oboe; the ringing French horn and the quaint clarinet to the massive, compelling sonority of the great 32-foot bombard and its accompanying battery of brilliant tubas, comprise the four divisions of the huge organ which is being installed in the Coliseum at the exposition grounds for the Methodist Centenary celebration to be held in Columbia, June 20 to July 12.

The organ is being built under the direct supervision of W. J. Kraft, director of music at Columbia university, by Moller of Hagerstown, Md. It will cost about $50,000.

"The instrument compares favorably with the largest organs now in use," said Professor Kraft. "It is much larger than the municipal organ at Portland, Me. The organ has 98 stops, having as subdivision great swell, choir, solo and echo. It will have the divisions of woodwind, brass, strings, harp and chimes. It is my purpose to invite some of the leading organists of the world to come to the celebration and give recitals."

Mr. Moller, builder of the organ, said: "I know of no organ in the country which has the power or so many modern appliances as that being built for the Centenary celebration. It will probably hold the record for being the largest organ used for any religious gathering."

There are three separate blowing plants, requiring 25 horsepower, with centrifugal electric blowers and generators. The console is movable, being connected with the organ by a flexible cable, located immediately in front of the stage at the west end of the auditorium. The organ covers a floor space of 900 square feet and weighs approximately eight tons. The blowers furnish 6,300 cubic feet of air per minute. Twenty-one miles of wire have been installed. The pipes range from three-quarters of an inch in length to 32 feet.

In planning the accompaniment for congregational singing in an auditorium seating 10,000 people, the committee in charge of the preparatory work saw that an orchestra would be ineffective, and that nothing would be so peculiarly in keeping with the religious motive underlying the whole movement as the resonance power, beauty and spiritual uplift which would result from the use of an organ. This organ will furnish accompaniment of great mixed choruses ranging from 500 to 1,500 voices, which will have part in the Centenary celebration. The work of installing its mechanism already is started and the terms of the contract call for completion by May 1.

WILLIAM A. KRAFT
Of Columbia University, Who Has Charge of All Music at the Centenary Celebration.

Professor Kraft has invited some of the leading organists of the United States to display their skill on this organ during the progress of the Centenary.

The man who does not seek each day to do his very best, no matter what his task, is doing himself an injury and increasing his debt to humanity. Life is a serious business. From the New Era, Federal Penitentiary, Leavenworth, Kan.

Step Higher Up.
If all our actions and motives in daily life could be actuated by a subconscious and all-pervading idea of fitting ourselves as we go along step by step for figurative letters of recommendation as to our ability to capably hold the next trench ahead, how surely would our foes of slackness, dilatoriness and incompetence be routed.

For Outdoor Chess Games.
Chessmen, which range from two to three and one-half feet in height, made of aluminum, collapsible, and packed in a special trunk, have been given to the library of the University of Wisconsin. A Milwaukee inn, now dead, designed them for use in public contests, on large indoor or outdoor chess boards, with a view to increasing popular interest in the game.

Fast Travel in Air.
By merely modifying wing curvature, airplanes of today could be made to fly at a speed of 250 miles an hour, according to a British captain who is considered an aeronautical authority. The obstacle that this would present, however, would be a minimum landing speed of about 150 miles an hour. Greater speed in the air is much to be desired, but no pilot is particularly anxious to bring his machine to earth at a rate such as that indicated.

Australian Pearls.
Pearls that come from the coast of Australia are of many shapes and colors. Those under ten grains are sold by the ounce, above that by the grain. Color has a deal to do with the value. The white pearls go mostly to Europe and the yellow ones to India. In Australia an ounce of good white pearls will fetch up to £100, but sometimes realize only a fifth of that amount. The yellow pearls may be rated on an average of about half the value of the white ones.

Six Governments Send Men To Boost Victory Loan Drive

SIX men, representatives of as many different allied powers and men who passed through some of the hardest fighting in the great war, are traveling through the Fourth Federal Reserve District, telling the public their viewpoint on the Victory Loan.

Each member of the group is an officer, specially assigned by his government to tell his story to the American people. Several of them wear decorations awarded for unusual bravery and they have all passed through many months of the hardest fighting in the war.

For example, Captain L. D. Gibbs of the British Army is the first Englishman who flew in a heavier-than-air machine and was with the first British contingent to face the Germans in their march on Paris. He was sent to this country as a British embassy attaché after being wounded.

The others represent the French army, Belgian army, Italian army, Canadian forces and the American Expeditionary Forces. The French representative, Lieutenant Rene Froment, wears a Croix de Guerre with four citations; Marshal Paul Hindenburg fought through the earlier days of the war in Belgium; Lieutenant Bruno Rosell of the Italian army was through the Corso Plateau campaign; Lieutenant Robert A. Shaw of the Canadian army was through Vimy Ridge.

Captain P. C. Rodiek, the American representative, was awarded a distinction for service cross for unusual bravery in the Argonne Forest drive.

Marines Show Why It's Last Loan

THOUSANDS of his pupils found marks for their bayonets in the Huns at Chateau Thierry and at Belleau Wood and they thrust just as he had taught them to, but Lieut. E. B. Irving never had a chance to try his own luck with a Fritz.

That's because he was able to teach so well. He instructed at the Quantico Overseas Depot.

Right now he is taking a squad of his Devil Dogs—every one a noncom and an instructor in bayonet drill—over the Fourth Federal Reserve District showing throngs in every city in which they exhibit the sort of tactics that made the Hun take to his heels.

They are showing the sort of soldiers your early Liberty Bond purchases started to pay for and the sort of soldiery which made it possible for this Victory Liberty Loan to be the last Liberty Loan instead of merely the Fifth.

"Put It Over!"

Major General Leonard Wood trained two divisions of Americans at Camp Funston for overseas service. He has asked the American people to support the Fifth Loan.

BY LEONARD WOOD,
Major General, U. S. A.

We have carried the war on successfully so far and we must see it through. The Fifth Loan, coming as it does after the armistice, will be a more severe test than the others, of the patriotism of our people. It is just as important as any loan we have made, and it should be carried through just as vigorously as the others. It is no time now to let up on our efforts.

BRAMBLEBRIAR TALKS

H.B.L. —
MR. GROUNDHOG CHANGES HIS MIND.

One bright sunny morning, Mr. Groundhog decided that he would walk down by the creek and pick out a suitable place for his garden. He walked slowly, his hands in his pockets, dreaming and thinking about the big luscious tomatoes he was going to raise that summer. The sun grew warmer and warmer as it climbed up into the blue sky, and made large beads of sweat pop out on Mr. Groundhog's forehead.

"Whew," he exclaimed as he whisked out his handkerchief, and seated himself behind the high hedge fence along the road. "I reckon we'll have a blistering hot summer if this keeps up. But then, of course, that's what makes fine tomatoes, and, after all, I shouldn't complain."

And as he lay resting and smoking his cornucopia pipe, his sharp ears caught the sound of voices, which seemed to come from the direction of Mr. Crow's corn mill. He paid little attention to the voices until they were close enough so that he could distinguish his own name being mentioned. Then he picked up his ears and laid low.

"Do you know," said one of the voices very distinctly, "that old Mr. Groundhog hasn't bought one Liberty Bond? And, what's more, I don't think he intends to buy any of the Victory Liberty Loan."

"I don't think we should have anything to do with him," said the other voice. "Anybody who has as much money as old Mr. Groundhog, and refuses to help his country pay its war debts, should be ashamed to look his fellow citizens in the eye."

These same voices came from Mr. Bear and Mr. Wolf, the most distinguished and important citizens of Bramblebriar Colony.

Mr. Groundhog sat in deep silence for a long time thinking what Mr. Wolf and Mr. Bear had said about him. Finally he rose to his feet and started down the road with a quick, determined step and never stopped until he came to the Bramblebriar bank. Walking up to Mr. Fox, who was the president of the bank, he said:

"Mr. Fox, I never knew what patriotism really meant to a man, but now I can see it clearly. Please let me give you my subscription for the VICTORY LIBERTY LOAN."

And then Mr. Groundhog started down the road to his cottage by the spring and he walked with a quicker step and wore a broader smile than was known to him in twenty years.

A Great Challenge

The Victory Liberty Loan is a great challenge to the government. It is the last nail to be driven in the archway of peace, and we are the instruments to preach peace to the world. If we should fail the whole structure built at so terrible a price would fall to the ground.

Dead Devil Dog?---Not Yet!

"THE LAST STAND" might be an appropriate title for this picture which shows a fallen Marine with his comrade beside him, continuing to work a German light Maxim machine gun in an advanced position.

This machine gun is one captured by the Marines from the Germans at Chateau Thierry. Guns of this type were used by the Germans in ambushing the allied troops. They were particularly deadly because they can be easily carried by one man and set up almost anywhere with or without a tripod. The gunner in this picture is also wearing a captured German helmet.

The two Marines who posed for this picture are part of the detachment of ten wounded "Devil Dogs" in command of Captain Shaler Ladd, who are traveling through the Fourth Federal Reserve District with War Troop Train No. 3.

Captain Ladd and his men have all tasted German gas and high explosive at Soissons, St. Mihiel, Belleau Woods and Chateau Thierry and are prepared to tell some startling truths about what the Allies saved civilization from when they forced the Huns to beg for an armistice.

These men know why the Victory Loan must go over in a big way and they are able to back up their statements with exhibits gathered from many battle fronts. They know the job back here must be finished and they're willing to help finish it.

Live and learn! A year ago how many of us had heard of Chateau Thierry or the Argonne Forest? Or how many suspected that the disposition of the Hungarian seaport of Fiume would make any difference in our young lives?

There are many more luxuries in France than in this country. Where anthracite coal is $80.00 a ton, butter $1.40 a pound, beefsteak $1.00 and up, eggs $1.60 a dozen and milk 20 cents a quart, these must all be reckoned as luxuries.

The wise people of the world are studying the question whether prices have risen or the value of currency has depreciated. But when we are paying 70 cents a pound for butter, it is not the reason as much as the fact which disturbs us.

There seems to be some difference of opinion on the subject of buns. The hairdresser informs us that they are going out, and the barkeeper says there will be no more to be had after July 1st, but the baker says they are much in demand and will continue to be so.
